

pHformula

DERMATOLOGICAL SKIN RESURFACING

When your skin is healthy, its layers work hard to protect itself. But, when compromised, the skin's ability to protect itself is impaired. As a result, pHformula has found the best approach to improving your skin's health and to support your skin in maintaining its protective role.

pHformula has taken skin resurfacing even further; with dermatological, non-invasive and tailored skin resurfacing treatments based on over three decades of combined scientific, medical and skin health knowledge and experience.

Our skin resurfacing system is targeted to the needs of your skin type – whether that is anti-ageing, hyperpigmentation, chronic redness, acne, wrinkles, or even if you are looking for an instant boost. Different treatments can be combined in a specially-designed program with controlled strength and depth depending on the sensitivity levels of your skin.

All treatments and formulae used in pHformula are supported by more than 30 years of combined scientific and medical experience. All our active ingredients are pharmaceutical grade, and offer an opportunity for physicians to recommend and apply one of the most advanced and effective skin resurfacing treatment systems available in today's aesthetic market.

